THE ELECTION.

Saturday morning the Advertiser had an article that could not be interpreted otherwise than as an appeal to the Reform party on Oahu to organize and place a ticket in the field for the election to take place in a little over three weeks. This was rather surprising in view of the fact that Mr. L. A. Thurston, generally regarded as the leader of the Reform party, had expressed the opinion, just as he was leaving for Maui the previous day, that it would be unwise for the Reform party to take action at this late hour. The very fact that the Advertiser, which is advertised by its owners as the organ of the Reform party, had never made any sign while every other party was organizing for the contest, indicated that the Reformers on Oahu were not going to take a hand as such in the election. Another symptom of that party's dormancy was the fact that many of its leading workers in the previous election were all along pressing into the Mechanics' Union as an avenue for the exertion of their patriotic energies. This morning's Advertiser, however, shows that in the previous issue it was only speaking for its dissatisfied self, and it virtually admits that its tacit appeal to its party to organize was unwise. Mr. Thurston at the same time comes out in a letter, urging the unwisdom of dividing the forces in favor of good government and a conservative policy at this juncture. In this connection the following remarks given to this paper as a communication fairly state the situation from the Reform party's standpoint:

"Dissatisfaction with the Noble ticket nominated by the Mechanics' Union and Hui Kula'aina has prompted the suggestion that another ticket should be put forward. It is said that some favor a Reform ticket pure and simple; that others advocate an independent ticket. While there are doubtless names which could be presented which would be more acceptable to many than some of those now nominated, we believe it would be most unwise for the Reform party to make up a ticket at this late day. Had the question of the wisdom of that party's putting up a ticket been presented at an earlier stage of the campaign, before nominations had all been made by the other organizations, there would be ample room for discussion. But to make up and press a Reform or Independent ticket now would in all probability result in the election of the Liberal ticket as a whole. So far as we can learn the reason why the Reform party in Honolulu has not called its organization together and entered actively into the campaign has been the fact of its being so much in the minority. As we understand the situation, the great majority of those who now constitute the Reform party only desire good government and a reasonably vigorous administration of public affairs. They seek no offices, and have no personal ends to serve distinct from the public interests. But from various causes this party has incurred so much hostility in Honolulu that there has been a tacit understanding that they would not present any ticket here. Whatever the reason may have been, or however wise or unwise that course may appear, to attempt at this late day to put up another ticket would surely result disastrously to the interests of good government."

OPIUM PILLS.

Condemned as Contraband by the Chief Justice.

The Collector General vs. 500 Bottles of Opium Pills, Chu Gem of Quong Sam Kee Co., claimant. Hearing at Chambers, January 5th and 6th, 1892.

OPINION OF CHIEF JUSTICE JUDG.

The invoice of goods imported by Quong Sam Kee Company per bark Kitty from Hongkong, China, was entered at the Custom House in Honolulu on December 23, 1891, by Chu Gem, manager of the importing firm. Chu Gem stated to the deputy collector that the pills in case No. 18 on the invoice calling for "China pills" he believed to be opium pills and struck them off from the invoice, the case to be surrendered to the government. The case was taken by mistake to the claimant's store and by him sent to the Custom House.

Case marked No. 101 was invoiced as containing "500 pes. China pills valued at $15, 10 pair flower shoes $8.20, 1 pc. ash flowers 10 cents." This case was seized on board the vessel by the customs officer and on examination found to contain medicinal pills containing opium, and the whole invoice of goods valued at $1828.85 was seized, less what packages had been delivered to the importer before the seizure.

The object of this libel is to forfeit and condemn to the use of the government the case of pills and the entire invoice of which the pills formed a part.

These pills purport by their label to be a remedy for the opium habit. The chemist (Mr. G. W. Smith) who analyzed them says they contain some vegetable extracts, etc., and a small quantity of opium and would produce in the taker the effects of opium, in a greater or less degree, according to the quantity taken. The printed prescription says the dose is twenty pills for each "mace" of opium which the taker has been in the habit of using. Can these pills be said to be a "preparation of opium?" The chemist did not make a quantitative analysis of the pills but says they respond to the test for opium. The quantity of opium evidently bears a small proportion to the other ingredients in the pills; and it seems to me that the compound could hardly be called in a strict sense a "preparation of opium." It would be more appropriately named after its principal ingredient which is probably "Ginseng." But the Legislature in forbidding the "importation of opium or any preparation thereof," evidently intended to exclude from this kingdom any compound which contains opium and which is intended to be used as a narcotic. Therefore, as the use of these pills is within the evils sought to be prevented by the law, I hold that they are a "preparation of opium."

Not only is their importation by private parties forbidden, but by the Act of 1886 (section 3, chapter 7), if they are "found in any ship within the limits of any part of this kingdom such goods and articles and the packages containing the same and all merchandise or part of the invoice in which such goods and articles were imported shall be forfeited."

This case of pills was found in the bark Kitty at the dock in the harbor of Honolulu, and by a strict construction of the statute it and the invoice of which it is a part are forfeited. The Deputy Attorney-General contends for this construction and urges that the prosecution has not to show guilty knowledge or a fraudulent intent to secure a forfeiture. I agree with this contention. But the claimant may show by the facts of the case that he did not intend to violate the law and import the prohibited articles. He shows correspondence with his agent in Hongkong in which he countermands the order previously sent for opium pills. The letter reached China after the Kitty had sailed for Honolulu. He says he believed case No. 18 contained the prohibited pills and surrendered it to the custom house and supposed case 101 contained "common pills" not having opium in them. He dealt in medicines and had ordered common pills.

A strict construction of the statute would condemn the whole invoice on account of the presence therein of case 18, which the importer repudiated and delivered to the customs. If the prohibited article was sent in an invoice, incontestably without the knowledge of the importer, by the construction contended for the innocent importer would be punished for the misdeeds of the guilty consignee.

The presumption, of course, will always exist that the importer is aware of the contents of the cases in his invoice. But to say that this presumption cannot be repelled by evidence would be unjust. The proceeding for condemnation is of a criminal character; a forfeiture of his goods punishes the importer as well as a fine would. The rule of law is that the offense must be established beyond a reasonable doubt U. S. v. The Brig Burdett 9 Peters 682.

The pills in case 18 differ in appearance from those in case 101. The conduct of the claimant importer throws a serious doubt upon the question of his knowledge that the pills in case 101 contained opium.

I therefore declare forfeit case 101 and contents and release the rest of the invoice. The claimant to pay costs.

I have not touched upon the alleged undervaluation of the peanut oil in the invoice, because it is not made a ground of condemnation in the libel and, moreover the evidence is that $5 in U. S. gold per case would be about the value of the article in Hongkong in Mexican silver.

A. F. JUDG, C. J.
C. Creighton for prosecution; P. Neumann for claimant.
Honolulu, January 11, 1892.

"August Flower"

What Is It For?

This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

Has it ever occurred to you what a desirable and acceptable present a picture makes? If not lend us your car for a moment until we explain. In the first place everyone enjoys looking at a pretty picture; it not only serves to beautify the home, but appeals to one's better feelings and forms excellent food for thought, which nothing else can give, and if the subject be well chosen, serves as a silent lecturer for good.

One need not confine himself to any particular style as the assortment of both styles and subjects is unlimited and almost any fancy can be gratified.

A picture has the peculiar power of stamping its image upon the minds of all who may see it, and in many cases leaves a life-long impression.

When making your rounds of shopping drop in at King Bros., on Hotel street, and see what they have to offer in this line, if for no other purpose than to enjoy what is to be seen.
